We are looking for STEM Ambassadors to share their science career experiences in our bank of video resources for science lessons. Our school has recently reviewed the science curriculum and we would like to increase the amount of careers links that we are making in our science lessons. We need STEM Ambassador role models to record a short video of themselves, describing their job and how they got into it. We will then sort the videos into which lessons they best fit. No special recording equipment necessary, a phone or webcam will do. We have prepared a sample video that we can share to help volunteers understand what we are looking for. 15min of your time will really help us bring STEM careers to life in the school! STEM Ambassadors from all backgrounds welcome, we want as many different role models as possible!
