

Georgia Wood Finding

butterflies

This book is dedicated to Amelia
and Lilly

Today at school
Tilly learnt about nature. One thing
she learnt is that caterpillars turn into butterflies.

"Ted, lets go on an adventure and find some butterflies" said
Tilly.

"You have to get ready" shouted
Ted...

So Tilly grabbed her gloves and wellies!

"Ted there are
lots of houses,
but no
butterflies" said
Tilly.

Oh no! Butterflies don't live in houses.

An illustration of a diverse crowd of people with their hands raised in excitement. In the foreground, a girl with long black hair and a surprised expression looks towards the crowd. A teddy bear is visible at the bottom of the crowd. The background is a light blue color.

"Ted there are lots of people, but no butterflies" said Tilly.

Oh no! Butterflies don't like crowds.

"Ted there is lots of rubbish, but no butterflies" said Tilly..

Oh no! Butterflies don't like rubbish.

"I have to come up with an idea Ted, to help me find the butterflies" said Tilly.

Tilly wanted to plant some flowers. So she started digging a hole for the seeds.

Tilly planted the seeds and then covered them back up with soil. This means that they can grow!

Tilly then watered the plants.

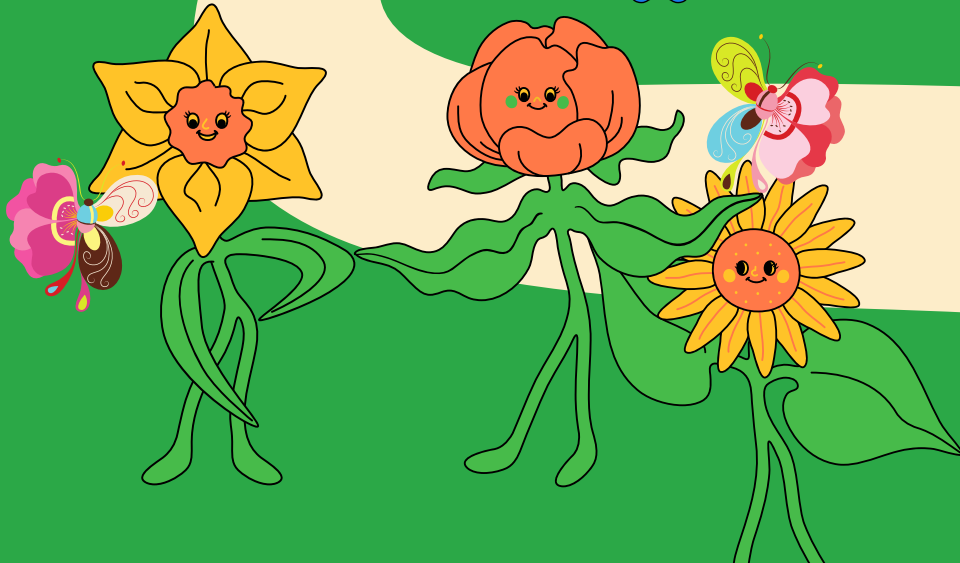

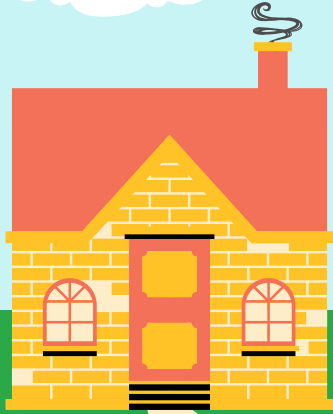

"It's taller than me!" said Ted.

"Now we must wait for the plants to grow!" said Tilly. So they both went to sleep.

When Tilly
leaves her house
in the morning
she notices
some flowers...

When Tilly gets closer, she sees that butterflies love flowers!

"That will be you soon Mr
Caterpillar!" said
Tilly.

Questions:

Where do butterflies live?

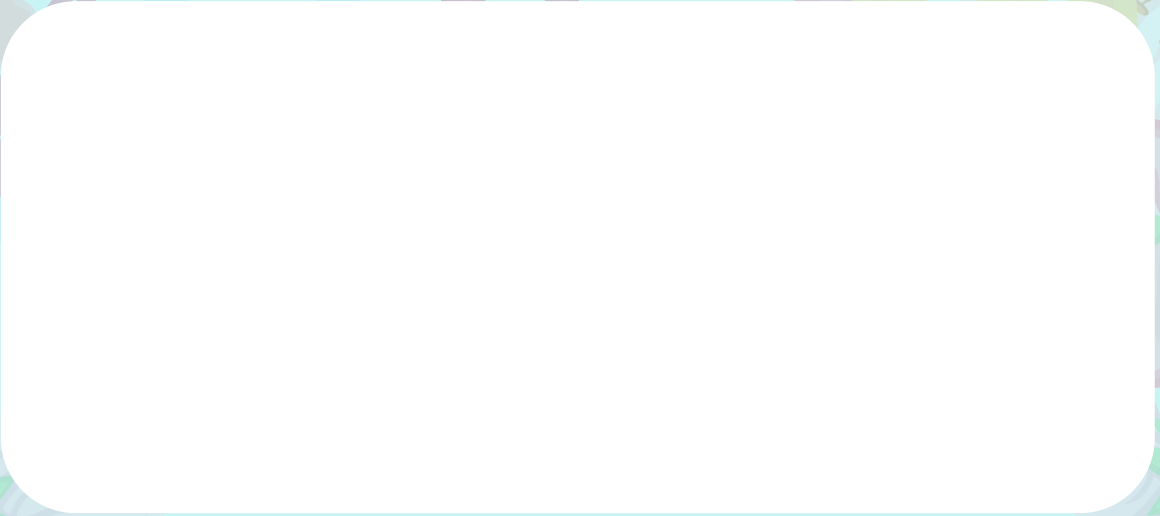

What must you do to seeds to help them grow?

Have you seen a butterfly before?

Draw your own butterflies!

Feedback:

Please provide us some feedback about Finding Butterflies.

Acknowledgments:

I want to thank both of my sisters and my grandmother for their inspiration and support during this project. I would also like to thank Verena Kriechbaumer for this opportunity.

Copyright Georgia Wood. This book is used for non-profit and educational uses only. It has been made using CANVA and its resources under the terms of license.